

Privacy Policy

1. Respecting Privacy

Privacy is a fundamental right, and at TEAMWORK ARTS and its affiliates, it is treated as such. This document sets forth our current policy in this regard.

2. Sources of Personal Data

Our business is founded on the principle that people matter. Respect for people is the foundation of our business. Respect for people includes respecting their right to privacy.

We are engaged in the business of producing and curating artistic, literary and cultural events and promoting India's Performing Arts and its various genres. Our website and events (both virtual and on-ground) are envisaged with a purpose - to provide both knowledge about our country's diverse cultural traditions and to entertain. Hence visitors and attendees of our events and websites are audiences who connect with us for that purpose

In the conduct of our business, we collect and process personal data of our users and visitors. Personal data is collected in the course of transacting on the website. Personal data is also collected through social media; from solicited and unsolicited communications; responses to promotional and other materials, among others. If your personal data is available with us, more likely than not, it has been shared by you with us.

Data collection technologies built into our websites, telecommunication systems, digital advertising, social media, etc. are additional sources of personal data collection. In addition to personal data that a user voluntarily furnishes, these electronic systems also collect personal data without the knowledge of the user, including user's preferences, frequency of access, IP addresses, type of browser, communication device or operating systems used, and geographic location, etc.

End.
